
Subject: Las Vegas

Posted by Faisal Adil on Fri, 14 Mar 2014 19:41:26 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

KVGT by far. The fuel is about $3 per gallon cheaper. The line service had the cab at curbside by the time I got there. There is also a rental car counter (Enterprise) I believe should you want to go that route.

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 14, 2014, at 12:33 PM, Greg Jellinek <dr.jellinek@mac.com (dr.jellinek@mac.com)> wrote:

[quote] North Las Vegas, without a doubt!

Greg Jellinek
Truckee, California
Tahoe Plastic Surgery
www.TahoePlasticSurgery.com
530-587-8600
dr.jellinek@mac.com (dr.jellinek@mac.com)

On 3/14/14, 12:30 PM, Richard Shine wrote: [quote] <![endif--> <![endif-->
I've got a very rare trip coming up early next month into Las Vegas for a five day convention. It has been a really long time since I flew in there. Considering, parking, fuel pricing, and ease of getting to the strip, which of the three airports would you frequent fliers to the area recommend? Thanks in advance!

[quote]
