Funny! It's just the best I have seen in the plane. Know others have seen much better in cruise. Found a website with groundspeed records where some folks from ThunderBay had a pick of over 450kts groundspeed...but I'm sure our friends up North spend as much time bucking the jet stream (or more) as they do enjoying those great tailwinds....

Being based in DC in the mid-Latitudes, I take what I can get!
